

Rights Round Table Newsletter 14

It was International Women's Day today. We talked about why we thought this day was important.

Group members said it was important to celebrate the women in their lives, and to help fight for equality.

We talked about different rights that women have fought for around the world, like the right to vote, drive, and to be independent.

There is also an International Men's Day on 19th November each year.

Then, we watched some videos about important campaigns.

We watched people fighting for their rights due to their race, disability, and sexuality.

We saw people protesting by going on big marches with lots of other people, and by taking action on their own.

Our group members said...

“I think Rosa Parks was a very strong and brave woman.”

“It makes me very angry when I see how some people are treated. But it also makes me want to work hard to fight for people’s rights.”

“I was surprised same-sex marriage wasn’t legal in Northern Ireland until 2020.”

“Taking action like I saw on the videos could be quite scary. Not everyone might be able to go on a protest.”

Our next Zoom meeting is on Monday 15th March, 2.30pm – 3.30pm.

Get in touch if you would like to be part of the Rights Round Table.

0191 281 8737

sally.hoban@skillsforpeople.org.uk

